On May 13, 2025, numerous experts, NGOs, institutions, local authorities, civil society representatives, and committed individuals gathered at the United Nations in Geneva to celebrate the 10th anniversary of the Universal Declaration of Humankind Rights (DDHu). It was a powerful moment of dialogue, commitment, and mobilization for a more ethical and sustainable future. This significant event, organized by the Friends of the Declaration Association and the UNF, provided an opportunity to review the past ten years, discuss major issues addressed by the Declaration, share concrete initiatives inspired by it, and outline ambitious prospects for action in the coming years. A large number of people closely followed the event: over 400 attendees participated in person, and more than 4,000 watched the live broadcast on the UNFTV channel. Throughout the day, the conference was marked by outstanding contributions from inspiring individuals and actors from civil society, institutions, politics, and business, all committed to promoting the values and principles of the Declaration.

Opening

The conference began with a solemn opening sequence. Christophe Giovannetti, Secretary General of the Friends of the Declaration Association and President of the Union Nations Federation (UNF), opened the conference with a welcome speech and words of thanks to all those who contributed to the event. Corinne Lepage, President of the DDHu and the initiator of the Declaration, then delivered a powerful and visionary speech highlighting the growing importance of this text.

Closing Remarks

“DDHu: more relevant than ever!”

Bettina Laville, Honorary State Councillor, Honorary President of Committee 21 and President of the Paris Institute for Advanced Studies, concluded the conference by emphasizing how the Universal Declaration of Humankind Rights is more relevant than ever in the face of today's ecological, social, and geopolitical challenges. She called for a collective mobilization to uphold the values and principles of the DDHu.

Signature of the DDHU

The remarkable quality of the panel discussions throughout this symbolic day significantly contributed to its success. Thanks to the commitment of all involved, over 100 new signatures were collected in support of the Universal Declaration of Humankind Rights — a strong signal for the future and a testament to its growing global resonance.

This 10th anniversary marks a new milestone in promoting human and environmental rights. The proposals discussed during the conference will help shape future reflections and actions.

Special thanks to our Young Ambassadors for their invaluable presence and contributions, highlighting the crucial importance of youth voices in addressing current challenges and shaping future visions..

Thanks also to Leon Sala for his work with the Carlos Takam Academy, an initiative led by the world boxing champion that supports youth through sports, education, and the transmission of universal values, offering young people hope and a caring environment.

Thanks to Guillaume Delahaye for his vision of the University of Traditional Medicine, tied to his Pyralide method, offering an innovative approach to integrating complementary and ancestral medicine into public health policy, aligned with modern medicine and aimed at dialogue, prevention, and holistic well-being.

Dr. Andrea Zaki Stephanous, President of the Coptic Evangelical Organization for Social Services (CEOSS), leads a nonprofit Egyptian civil society organization. CEOSS Vision: Since its founding in 1961, it has worked to uplift humanity, promote justice and equality, spread a culture of enlightened thought, and uphold ethical principles and shared human values. CEOSS Mission: To promote the sacredness, equity, and harmony of life. The organization aims to contribute to societal transformation by fostering moral and spiritual awareness, strengthening the sense of belonging, encouraging respect for diversity, addressing conflicts, and advancing social justice for individuals and communities.

Finally, I wish to thank all those not mentioned here, especially Pierre Kantoury, Ronald Jappont, Sandrine Brunel, Alexandre Giovannetti, Zakaria Iddi, Stéphane Schitteck, and Pierre Michel Viot for their invaluable support.
